But when Daniel learned that the law had been signed, he went home and knelt down as usual in his upstairs room, with his windows open towards Jerusalem. He prayed three times a day as he had always done, giving thanks to his God. Then the officials went together to Daniel's house and found him praying and asking for God's help.
So they went straight to the king and reminded him about his law. "Did you not sign a law that for the next thirty days anyone who prays to anyone, divine or human—except to you, Your Majesty—will be thrown into the den of lions?" Dan:6:10+

Love is the root of missions; sacrifice is the fruit of missions. Roderick Davis

You shall never make a missionary of the person who does no good at home. C. H. Spurgeon

More and more I am persuaded from Scripture and from the history of missions that God's design for the evangelization of the world and the consummation of His purposes includes the suffering of His ministers and missionaries. To put it more plainly and specifically, God designs that the suffering of His ministers and missionaries is one essential means in the joyful triumphant spread of the gospel among all the peoples of the world. John Piper

This God, who is King, is worthy to be known and to be proclaimed for who He is. The missionary who proclaims this God cannot fail. If his message extols the sovereign God, it will be significant even supposing it is never the means of winning one soul. The message will not be lost. Tom Wells

A group of Communists confronted a Christian and ridiculed his testimony, insisting that all that's important is the here and now.
They declared that a violent revolution was a must, and claimed they were ready to lay down their lives if need be.
Upon hearing this, the believer said, "You say you're ready to die. Well, so am I. And you can kill me right now if you like.
But remember, if you die, it is for nothing. If I die, it is for something lasting!"
Some of these young men began to examine their commitment to communism. They admitted that they had no eternal hope and that a revolution would not necessarily bring about a utopia.
They concluded that maybe they would be giving their lives for nothing. As a result, they listened to the Gospel, and a number of them were marvellously saved.
