In Caesarea there lived a Roman army officer named Cornelius who was a captain of the Italian regiment. He was a devout God fearing man, as was everyone in his household. He gave generously to the poor and prayed regularly to God. One afternoon, about three o'clock, he had a vision in which he saw an angel of God coming toward him.
"Cornelius," the angel said. Cornelius stared at him in terror.
"What is it, sir," he asked the angel. And the angel replied, "Your prayers and gifts to the poor have been received by God as an offering.. Now send some men to Joppa, and summon a man named Simon Peter. He lives with a man named Simon, a tanner, who lives near the sea-shore."

If there be any one point in which the Christian church ought to keep its fervour at a white heat, it is concerning missions. If there be anything about which we cannot tolerate luke-warmness, it is in the matter of sending the Gospel to a dying world

Charles Spurgeon

Life is war. That's not all it is. But it is always that. Our weakness in prayer is owing largely to our neglect of this truth. Prayer is primarily a wartime walkie-talkie for the mission of the church as it advances against the powers of darkness and unbelief. John Piper

God has created me to do him some definite service; he has committed some work to me which he has not committed to another. I have my mission - I never may know it in this life, but I shall be told it in the next.

John Henry Newman

The success or failure of our work as a church or mission depends, in the last resort, largely, not in the number of preachers we put into the field, nor on the size of our congregations, but rather on the character of Christianity we and our work produce.

Duncan Campbell

William Cary was a shoemaker when one day he heard of the millions of people in India who had not heard the Good News of Jesus Christ. He believed the great commission to "Go into all the world and preach the gospel." He believed that that verse was speaking directly to him. So he volunteered to go to India but was told "Young man, sit down. When God wants to convert the heathen, He will do it without your help." Cary went anyway – supporting himself. For seven years he worked without seeing a single convert – but by the end of his life he saw hundreds of churches and thousands of converts. He was a man of faith.
