Then fourteen years later I went back to Jerusalem again. This time with Barnabus: and Titus came along, too. I went there because God revealed to me that I should go. While I was there I met privately with those considered the leaders of the Church and shared with them the message I had been preaching to the Gentiles. I wanted to make sure that we were in agreement, for fear that all my efforts had been wasted and I was running the race for nothing. And they supported me and did not even demand that my companion, Titus, be circumcised, though he was a Gentile. Gal. 2:1+

The greatest form of praise is the sound of consecrated feet seeking out the lost and helpless. Billy Graham

I care not where I go, or how I live, or what I endure so that I may save souls. When I sleep I dream of them; when I awake they are first in my thoughts. David Brainerd

You can take nothing greater to the heathen world than the impress and the reflection of the love of God upon your character. That is the universal language. Henry Drummond

God's work, done in God's way will never lack God's supplies. Hudson Taylor

Give me one hundred preachers who fear nothing but sin and desire nothing but God, and I care not whether they be clergymen or laymen, they alone will shake the gates of Hell and set up the kingdom of Heaven upon Earth John Wesley

Look! Don't be deceived by appearances - men and things are not what they seem. All who are not on the rock are in the sea! William Booth

T.H. Huxley, a well-known agnostic, was with a group of men at a weekend house party. On Sunday morning, while most of them were preparing to go to church, he approached a man known for his Christian character and said, "Suppose you stay at home and tell my why you are a Christian." The man, knowing he couldn't match wits with Huxley, hesitated. But the agnostic said gently, "I don't want to argue with you. I just want you to tell me simply what this Christ means to you." The man did, and when he finished, there were tears in Huxley's eyes as he said, "I would give my right hand if only I could believe that!"
