What, then, are we to say about Abraham our ancestor in the natural line? If Abraham was justified by anything he had done. Then he has a ground for pride. But he has no such ground before God; for what does Scripture say? 'Abraham put his faith in God, and that faith was counted to him as righteousness.' Now if man does a piece of work his wages are not "counted" as a favour; they are paid as a debt. But if without any work to his credit he simply puts his faith in him who acquits the guilty, then his faith is indeed 'counted as righteousness.' Romans 4:1+

And when I face reality and see the utter awfulness of my sin contrasted with beauty of His holiness, my never-ending refrain will be that He is a God of amazing grace and that He has given me amazing grace. Randy Smith

The only thing of our very own which we contribute to our salvation is the sin which makes it necessary.

Anything added to grace destroys it just as surely as does anything taken from it. When law – even God's own law – is added to grace, His grace ceases to be grace. .

John MacArthur

The righteousness that God requires from you, is the righteousness that God gives to you. James Merrit

Our peace and confidence are to be found not in our empirical holiness, not in our progress toward perfection, but in the alien righteousness of Jesus Christ that covers our sinfulness and alone makes us acceptable before a holy God D. Bloesch

A righteous man may make a righteous work, but no work of an unrighteous man can make him righteous. Now we become righteous only by faith, through the righteousness of Christ imputed to us. Thomas Boston

I preached on the righteousness of the law and the righteousness of faith. While I was speaking, several dropped down as dead and among the rest such a cry was heard of sinners groaning for the righteousness of faith that it almost drowned my voice. But many of these soon lifted up their heads with joy and broke out into thanksgiving, being assured they now had the desire of their soul - the forgiveness of their sins.
John Wesley

In the maxims of the law, God is seen as the rewarder of perfect righteousness and the avenger of sin. But in Christ, His face shines out, full of grace and gentleness to poor, unworthy sinners. John Calvin

As the one who sets the rules by which we live, God calls us to live by faith in his big plan, not by our limited sight.

Joel Belz

A Jewish banker gives this witness of the power of God through Christ to change lives. He says, "A few years ago I was sent to a place in Puerto Rico to make some studies for the bank. It was the worst, the dirtiest city imaginable Two years later I returned and it was completely changed. Everything was clean, there was pride, even the rough night spots were gone. I wondered what happened, a new mayor? A new city council ? No, I found that a Christian missionary came to the heart of that city and began a mission. I saw what the love of Christ and love for Christ can do to a city.
