The beast was allowed to mouth bombast and blasphemy, and was given the right to reign for forty-two months. It opened its mouth in blasphemy against God, reviling his name and his heavenly dwelling. It was also allowed to wage war on God's people and defeat them, and was granted authority over every tribe and people, language and nation. All on earth will worship it, except those whose names the Lamb that was slain keeps in his roll of the living, written there since the world was made. Hear, ye who have ears to hear! Whoever is to be made prisoner, a prisoner he shall be. Whoever takes the sword to kill. By the sword he is bound to be killed. This is where the fortitude and faithfulness of God's people have their place. Then I saw another beast, which came up out of the earth; it had two horns like a lamb, but spoke like a dragon. Against the persecution of a tyrant the godly have no remedy but prayer. John Calvin

For if God be on our side, what matter maketh it who be against us, be they bishops, cardinals, popes, or whatsoever names they will? William Tyndale

Wicked men seem to bear great reverence to the saints departed; they canonize dead saints, but persecute living. Thomas Watson

It has become a settled principle that nothing which is good and true can be destroyed by persecution, but that the effect ultimately is to establish more firmly, and to spread more widely, that which it was designed to overthrow. It has long since passed into a proverb that "the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church." Albert Barnes

Tragically, American Christians are typically unaware of the violence our international brothers and sisters face for following Jesus Christ. Jonathan Falwell

Unfortunately, many of the young people who attend public schools and universities in America today are being persecuted for their profession of faith in Christ. Judge Roy Moore

As I was falling asleep one night, I 'heard' the wail and weeping of hundreds of souls in deep travail. I asked God. "Who are these who weep so?" And God answered. "These are the cries of the persecuted church, who intercede for those Christians who live in freedom of faith and take it for granted." My heart broke. Katherine Walden

After one of the terrible battles of the Civil War, a dying Confederate soldier asked to see the chaplain. When the chaplain arrived, he supposed the young man would wish him to ask God for his recovery; but it was very different. First the soldier asked him to cut off a lock of his hair for his mother, and then he asked him to kneel down and thank God. "What for?" asked the surprised chaplain. "For giving me such a mother. Thank God that I am a Christian. And thank God for giving me grace to die with. And thank God for the home He has promised me over there." And so the chaplain knelt down by the dying man, and in his prayer he had not a single petition to offer, but only praise and gratitude
