A lot of people were now becoming followers of the Lord. But some of the ones who spoke Greek started complaining about those who spoke Aramaic. They complained that the Greek speaking widows were not given their share when the food supplies were handed out each day. The twelve apostles called the whole group together and said,, "We should not give up preaching God's message in order to serve at tables." My friends, choose seven men who are respected and wise and filled with God's Spirit, We will put them in charge of these things. We can spend our time praying and serving God by preaching." This suggestion pleased everyone and they began by choosing Stephen.. Acts 6:1+

Leading implies following; and those who are enabled to follow the guidance of the Divine Spirit are most assuredly children of God, for the Lord ever leads His own children. If, then, you are following the lead of God's Spirit, you have one of the evidences of son–ship. C.H. Spurgeon

I can say, through the power of the Spirit, that wherever God can get a people that will come together in one accord and one mind in the Word of God, the baptism of the Holy Ghost will fall upon them, like as at Cornelius' house. J. Seymour

The more fractured we are, the greater we become spectacles to the world. The more we are united in love, the more the world sees Christ. Curtis Thomas

If we want the meaning and the worth and the beauty and the power of the cross of Christ to be seen and loved in our churches, and if the design of the death of His Son is not only to reconcile us to God but to reconcile alienated ethnic groups to each other in Christ, then will we not display and magnify the cross of Christ better by more and deeper and sweeter ethnic diversity and unity in our worship and life? John Piper

Why do we in the church oftentimes only see our superficial differences? Why can't we see each other as we are, ultimately alike – redeemed by the blood, united with Christ, loved by God, adopted into the same family? Randy Smith

There is but one God, and they that serve Him should be one. There is nothing that would render the true religion more lovely, or make more proselytes to it, than to see the professors of it tied together with the heart-strings of love. Thomas Watson

There's no mechanism that we possess that tells us at the moment when the Holy Spirit is leading us and in some supernatural way. But that in retrospect we will be able to discern by the providences of God that unfold. J. MacArthur

Now the question is, "Shall we have a great and mighty harvest, or shall we go on discussing our differences?" D.L. Moody

Peter V. Deison, in his book The Priority of Knowing God, tells about Ramad, a man of India who was a member of a gang of robbers. On one occasion, while burglarizing a house, Ramad noticed a small black book containing very thin pages just right for making cigarettes. So he took it.
Each evening he tore out a page rolled it around some tobacco and had a smoke. Noticing that the small words on the pages were in his language, he began to read them before rolling his cigarettes. One evening after reading a page, he knelt on the ground and asked the Lord Jesus to forgive his sins and to save him. He then turned himself in to the police, much to their amazement. Ramad the bandit became a follower of Jesus Christ. And in the prison where he served his sentence for his crimes, he led many others to the Saviour. The Word of God became to Ramad "the power of God to salvation."
