This is what God showed to Jesus Christ, so that He could tell his servants what must happen soon. Christ then sent his angel with the message to his servant John. And John told everything that he had seen about God's message and about what Jesus Christ had said and done. God will bless everyone who reads this prophecy to others, and he will bless everyone who hears and obeys it. The time is almost here. From John to the seven churches in Asia. I pray that you will be blessed with kindness and peace from God, who is and was and is coming. Rev.1:1+

Men cannot open their eyes without being compelled to see Him [and] wherever you cast your eyes, there is no spot in the universe wherein you cannot discern at least some sparks of His glory. John Calvin

Revelation is the activity of God by which He unveils or discloses or makes known what is, to humanity, otherwise unknowable. It is God making Himself known to those shaped in His image. Revelation is what God does, not what mankind achieves. It is a divinely initiated disclosure, not an effort or endeavour or achievement on the part of mankind.

There is more hid in Christ than we shall ever learn, here or there either; but they that begin first to inquire will soonest be gladdened with revelation; and with them He will be best pleased, for the slowness of His disciples troubled Him of old. To say that we must wait for the other world, to know the mind of Him who came to this world to give Himself to us, seems to me the foolishness of a worldly and lazy spirit. The Son of God is the teacher of men, giving to them of His Spirit — that Spirit which manifests the deep things of God, being to a man the mind of Christ. George MacDonald

Here is a revelation bright as the evening star: Jesus comes for sinners, for those as outcast as tax collectors and for those caught up in squalid choices and failed dreams. He comes for corporate executives, street people, superstars, farmers, hookers, addicts, IRS agents, AIDS victims, and even used car salesman. Jesus not only talks with these people but dines with them — fully aware that his table fellowship with sinners will raise the eyes of the religious bureaucrats who hold up the robes and insignia of their authority to justify their condemnation of the truth and their rejection of the Gospel of Grace.

Brennan Manning

The Bible is like a telescope. If a man looks through his telescope, then he sees worlds beyond; but if he looks at his telescope, then he does not see anything but that. The Bible is a thing to be looked through, to see that which is beyond.

Phillips Brooks

We breathe in the revelation of who God is and then breathe out in praise. Nicky Gumbel

Max Lucado writes, "I was flying home to san Antonio one evening and as the wheels of the plane hit the runway, all through the plane you could hear the unfastening of seatbelts. a voice came over the intercom saying, 'please remain seated with your seatbelt fastened until the plane comes to a complete stop,' no one paid attention and people were opening the overhead compartments, getting their stuff out. i asked myself why are they so anxious to get off this plane, and the answer came quickly: they were home and they wanted to see the people they love. i t dawned on me that the flight attendants didn't have to pull anyone out of their seats, who might want to stay on the plane for a few more hours, because they were home and wanted to get off of that plane. then I asked myself, why do we Christians, hold so fast to our seats in this world? why aren't we as anxious as these people, to get off this crazy world, when in fact, were not home yet either?"
