For the creature was made subject to vanity, not willingly, but by reason of him who hath subjected the same in hope. Because the creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption, into the glorious liberty of the children of God. For we know that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now. And not only they, but ourselves also, which have the firstfruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves within ourselves waiting for the adoption, to wit, the redemption of our body. Rom. 8:20 =

The highest form of worship is the worship of unselfish Christian service. Billy Graham

After learning to love God learning to love others is the second purpose of your life. Rick Warren

God has no more precious gift to a church or an age than a man who lives as an embodiment of his will, and inspires those around him with the faith of what grace can do.

Andrew Murray

Our walk counts far more than our talk, always!

George Muller

The fact that God ordained our days for us should also give meaning to every day, not just the special or exciting days of our lives. Every day is important for us because it is a day ordained by God. If we are bored with life there is something wrong with our concept of God and His involvement in our daily lives. Even the most dull and tedious days of our lives are ordained by God and ought to be used by us to glorify Him.

James Hufstetler

It is no accident that God has chosen to call us sheep. The behaviour of sheep and human beings is similar in many ways. ...Our mass mind (or mob instincts), our fears and timidity, our stubbornness and stupidity, our perverse habits are all parallels of profound importance. Yet despite these adverse characteristics Christ has chosen us, buys us, calls us by name, makes us His own and delights in caring for us.

Phillip Keller

[God] has no malice in His purity, no maliciousness in His actions. God does not "delight" in the death of the wicked – even though He decrees it. His judgments upon evil are rooted in His righteousness, not in some distorted malice in His character. Like an earthly judge weeps when he sends the guilty for punishment, God rejoices in the justness of it but gets no glee from the pain of those justly punished.

R. C. Sproul

Fanny Crosby was only six weeks old when she developed a minor eye inflammation. It was a simple thing to treat even in 1820, the year she was born. All the doctor had to do was apply some poultices to her eyes with a little medication. Only the doctor that treated Fanny Crosby was careless. He put too much medication in the poultices, and she went totally and permanently blind. Later in life, she said of the doctor, "If I could meet him now, I would say 'thank you' over and over again for making me blind." That's because she saw her blindness as a gift from God. It's what helped her see Jesus in ways others seldom saw Him, for her blindness had given her spiritual insight few ever had.
